Connecting the Dots to Improve Campus Safety

Rick Shaw, CEO/President

Awareity

Lessons learned show that failing to connect the dots can lead to expensive, embarrassing and tragic results. What does connecting the dots involve in schools? What can schools do to more effectively connect the dots and improve violence prevention? According to lessons learned, what are the most common disconnects? How can schools build environments of safety and preparedness? How does connecting the dots improve campus safety? This presentation will share real world examples from campuses working to more effectively implement lessons learned and improve threat assessment ongoing.
