

2nd Annual Conference

When Egos Collide: Managing partnerships between Campus Police Departments, Residence Life Professionals, and Counseling Centers.

John Delony, Assistant Dean for Residence Life Education and Housing
Jimmy Ellison, Chief of Police and Director of Campus Security
Steve Rowlands, Director of Counseling Center

Abilene Christian University

In a residential college setting, Campus Law Enforcement, Residence Life, and Mental Health professionals have similar goals towards promoting a safe and healthy campus, student satisfaction and learning, and overall student success. Conversely, when responding to a given incident, these three campus partners may find themselves with competing professional responses, incident management, and competing incident response missions. This session will examine these fragile but critical partnerships in three parts: Reflection through case study, discussion and reflection of best practice and practical partnership development, and round table discussion to reflect on others campus experiences.
